What are the symptoms?

The afflicted leg may...

- Swell
- Become warm
- Turn red or purple/blue
- Throb or ache
- Become tender to touch or movement

At least half of deep vein thrombosis patients may not exhibit any outward signs at all. Once patients develop a blood clot in their leg or lung, they need to carefully monitor for any signs that their blood clot has worsened or recurred.